

Who is going to that conference?

To facilitate networking, the Monogram Network site offer the possibility to register your attendance to a conference...

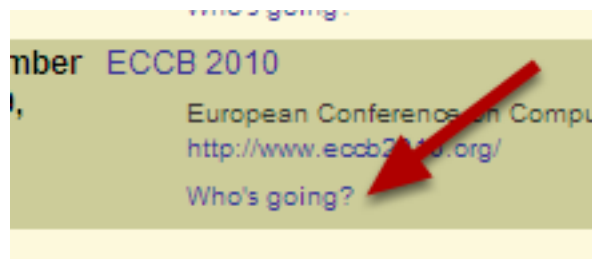

How?

On the Conferences page

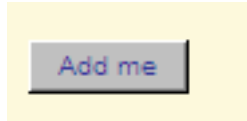

To go to the Conferences page, choose the menu option: Networking > Conferences. This page will list the conferences that might be of interest to grain research in Europe.

"Who's going?" link

At the bottom of each Conference listing is a little question: Who's going. If you click on it, you will get a list of people who said they will and also the possibility to add yourself to the conference...

"Add me"

The "Add me" button will not register you to the actual conference, but give the information to other monogram users that you are going there..
